Water Quality Advisory lifted for Kin Beach

As of today (June 30), the Water Quality Advisory that was issued for Kin Beach has been lifted and the beach has been re-opened to the public. All Water Quality Advisory signage is being removed from the beach this afternoon.

The City would like to thank everyone for their patience and understanding while the beach was temporarily closed.

For more information regarding beach water quality, please visit the Interior Health Authority's website at: <https://www.interiorhealth.ca/YourEnvironment/RecreationalWater/Pages/Public-Beaches.aspx>
