Crews repairing damaged traffic signal at intersection of 25th Avenue and 41st Street

Motorists traveling along 25th Avenue may experience slight traffic delays as crews repair a damaged traffic control signal controller at the intersection of 41st Street and 25th Avenue. The signals are currently without power.

The work is expected to be completed by the end of the day.

Motorists are asked to slow down and use extra caution when approaching the intersection. When traffic control signals are not in service, they must be treated as a four-way stop, as per the Motor Vehicle Act of British Columbia.

The City thanks everyone for their patience and understanding.
